

Run effective security awareness programmes. On autopilot.

As a GCHQ-certified training provider; our web-based Security Culture Enablement Platform® provides all of the tools needed to run highly-effective tailored security awareness and behaviour change programmes. Automatically.

Continuously Assess Employee Security Behaviour

The risk from each employee's security behaviour is continuously and automatically analysed using on-going attack simulations, quizzes, surveys, assessment of technical controls and by ingesting behavioural data from your existing systems.

Deliver Tailored Security Training Automatically

Our intelligent content engine automatically and continuously builds and delivers security awareness training for each employee, based on their role, behaviour and previous training engagement. Your organisations risks, compliance requirements, branding & policies are also taken into account. Forget huge content libraries, this is truly individualised security training.

Empower Employees

Improve both engagement and employee security behaviour by easily deploying tools like email reporting addins, gamification, leaderboards and automatic reward schemes.

Integrations

Ingest data from your existing assessments, systems or even pentest reports to help measure employee behaviour & enable the platform to make even more intelligent training decisions. Push behavioural or training data out to your own applications, infrastructure or LMS's with our integration capabilities.

Insights

Our powerful analytics engine allows you to measure and benchmark security culture and understand why your employees behave the way they do. Our intelligent recommendations engine blends behaviour science, cyber security insights and machine learning to produce actionable advice on tweaking your programme to further improve employee security behaviour.

Automated Reporting

View real-time results in our web-based dashboard, or enable automated reporting; from compliance reports to behaviour trend reports and automated distribution to stakeholders.

Get started today

Our experts will do all of your onboarding and setup, making getting it simple, quick and effortless to get an effective, automated awareness programme in place as part of your business as usual activities.
